FOR FUTURE WORLD HISTORY

The tremendous growth of Latin America is seen in the letting of a $60,000,000 contract to a United States firm for the construction of a diagonal boulevard through the business section of Buenos Aires, in the Argentine, South America. The boulevard will be built solid with ten-story structures, on both sides. The contract was let by the city of Buenos Aires and is said to be the greatest ever signed by any country of the western hemisphere, with another country of that hemisphere. The tide of civilization is indeed ebbing fast from the shores of Europe, and flowing in a golden surge to the western world. Financially and spiritually, Europe has committed suicide. From its palzied hands, red with the blood of centuries of misrule, the sceptre of power has fallen, to be caught and lifted

The government reckoned his wealth at half a billion and expects to get $125,000 from his inheritance tax.

Stinnes was fond of displaying his wealth in a peculiar way. Passing a newspaper office or a factory or a coal mine he would say, "I own that." He seemed to take a childish delight in the accumulation of things.

Now he is dead and has left it all. He has gone into the next world with no pocket in his shroud. He enters there as a poor man. He is worth no more than he is worth It is singular that the richest man in the world, he is called, is from the poorest country in the world, which shows that a man's riches do not depend upon the riches of his fellow creatures, but, quite often, upon their poverty.

The rich men of the United States get on, as a rule, by helping other people on. The prosperity of such workers as Henry Ford is commensurate with the prosperity of those around him.

But in any case when a man comes down to take the little boat that crosses to the other shore there is room in it only for himself and his friendships. How many friendships has Stinnes accumulated? How many men were devoted to him as the maker of their fortunes? How many little children mourned at his grave? How many widows orphans and the little ones of earth were desolate because this great man had departed?

Nothing is said in the press dispatches of all this, although more is talked about in Germany of his demise than of any other subject. No man can gather together a half billion dollars without deeply impressing his fellowmen in some way. Was Stinnes merely an example of the accumulative instinct? If so, the money he has scraped together will soon fly away. Was he more than this? Was he a sample of the organizing power of the German people, or of modern times? Will his example be followed by others? After all a man's life and his works must be

Business Conditions Better in Coast States, Says District Summary

In his summary of business conditions in the Twelfth Federal Reserve District, John Perrin, chairman of the board and federal reserve agent, declared today that productive activity in the district declined moderately during April, but distribution of goods continued at the high levels of previous months.

Highlights of the business digest follow:

"The total volume of business transacted was smaller during April than March and, if correction be made for normal annual growth, was slightly below the level of April, 1923. It should be said, however, that the decline in the district figure for April, as was the case in March, was due solely to abnormal conditions prevailing in California. In the district outside of the state there has been a steady increase in business activity during the first few months of 1924.

Lumber Market

"Slight curtailment of lumber production as compared with a year ago, was noted during the month, a movement forecasted during recent weeks by small increases in mill stocks and continued price weakness. Shipments and orders continued in large volume. "Mineral production appears to be stabilized at levels slightly below the peak of recent months. The continuous decline in flow of petroleum from California wells which began in September, 1923, terminated, at least temporarily during April when average daily production increased by a fraction

Declares Realty Business Is Not Haphazard Affair

"The real estate business is not a haphazard one and the best informed man is the most successful," said Emile E. Kahn, vice-president of the California Real Estate association at San Francisco, who addressed the Berkeley Realty Board at the weekly luncheon.

"Horse sense, information and confidence are the three essentials to success in investments," declared Kahn, "and the public should be kept informed as to the activities of the real estate business for this reason. Real estate bears the burden of taxation and is the basis of all securities."

Kahn said that realty or-

Totals for licenses issued this year are: Brokers' licenses, 12,332; copartnership licenses, 2382; licenses members of copartnerships, 2507; corporation licenses, 512; licenses to officers of corporations, 508; salesmen licenses, 25,578.

Persistent Advertising Is Aid To Associations

The leading cooperative associations of California have found that persistent advertising does create public opinion and has been for them "The Man Behind the Gun." Year after year they have continued their advertising appropriations and it has paid them to do so, because the demand for their products has increased.

More oranges, lemons, raisins, prunes and other products are consumed because the people of the United States and other countries have been educated to like them.

The associations are composed of the most conservative orchardists and vineyardists of the state and they give careful consideration to all plans for the expenditure of money as it has to be contributed by their members. They produce intelligently, pack carefully, ship to advantage and advertising does the rest.

The leading associations will, it is estimated, expend in promoting sales in 1924 amounts as follows:

Sun Maid Raisin Growers, $1,800,000. California Fruit Growers'

Exchange, $900,000. California Prune and Peach Growers, $600,000. California Walnut Growers, $200,000.

The peach growers have been planning to expend an additional $150,000 in their campaign.
Fruit canning establishments are also expected to advertise heavily. Farmers from other states will find in California enterprising orchardists and general farmers who keep well in advance in all efforts to produce and sell their crops to the best advantage.

Survey Shows Real Estate Market Is in Healthy Condition Now

The unprecedented activity which made the year 1923 a record year in the real estate market is gradually subsiding into a state of normal activity throughout the country, according to the fourth semi-annual survey of real estate conditions over the United States and Canada just completed by the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Returns reported from 229 member boards indicate that the market is in a very healthy condition. It maintains a level of great activity, in which, nevertheess, buying is cautious, and de mands that actual value lie behind asking prices.

The conclusion drawn from the eports is confirmed by data which Petition to Trustees Asks Ornamental System Sought the national assocition has been collecting from county recorders and from members of the American Title association covering the number of transfers and convey-ances recorded from month to BURBANK, May 31.—A peti-tion has been presented to the owners along Colorado boulevard data show that the number of transfers recorded is on a level whole.

Broker Entitled To Commission if Papers in Escrow

Once the papers in a real estate transaction are placed in escrow the realty broker is entitled to his commission even though one of the par-ties experiences a last minute change of heart and refuses to complete the deal, according to the California Real Estate association. This decision was handed down by Judge George R. Holbrook recently in a case of O. G. Figgins, real estate broker against Hugh P. Anderson, an Ontario rancher.

It developed that Mr. Anderson, through the agency of Mr. Figgins, had agreed to exchange citrus ranch property in Ontario valued at $6000 for business property in Republic, Kansas, owned by Joe G. and Hannah L. Read. After an appraisement had been made by a bank in Republic, Kansas, Mr. Anderson agreed to go ahead with the transaction and the papers were placed in escrow in an Ontario bank. Subsequently, Mr. Anderson changed his mind, and refused to pay Mr. Figgins, who had acted as his agent, so the latter sued.

Mr. Figgins held that he had completed his end of the deal and was entitled to compensation. The court allowed the realty broker $250 due as commission and $25 attorney's fees and the cost of the suit.

National Head Urges Realty Boards to Take Active Interest Locally

The more awake a real estate board in any city is to the larger factors of its responsibility to the city and to the profession the more successful and the better supported that real estate board is, according to H. R. Ennis, of Kansas City, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, who, since his induction into office in January, has traveled something more than 16,000 miles in visits to member boards of the association.

That 16,000 will be nearer 17,-000 before the opening of the association's annual convention at Washington, D. C., June 3.

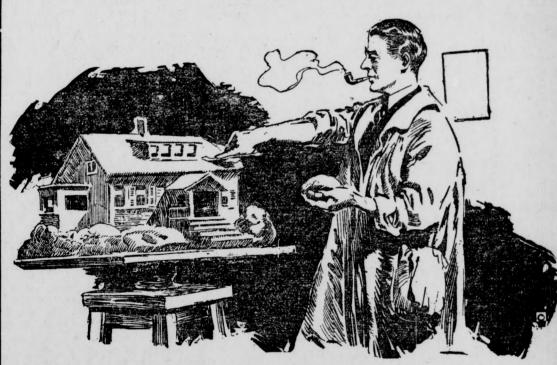

Lectures Before Many

Mr. Ennis has practically given up his private business for the year and has devoted a very large share of his time to the work of the national association. He has visited constituent boards in the southeast, the east, in New England, in the middle west, in the Studio at Glen Oaks southwest and in Canada. He has talked to hundreds of realtors each week during these visits.

'The Squash Head' to Start Week's Run on Sunday At Tent Theatre

Murphy's Comedians are doing better business at their new location on North Brand boulevard and Stocker street, Casa Verdugo, they report, than they did in the heart of Glendale. Their hilari-ous farce-comedy, "Nothing But the Truth," has proved one of the best vehicles they ever offered, declares J. A. Menard.

This play will show for the last time at 8:15 o'clock tonight, he states. Sunday night the Comedians will open with "The Squash Head," a new farce-comedy, said to be just as funny as the present laugh-getter.

Murphy's Comedians are congratulated by Jot C. Wood of 1739 Del Valle avenue, who says their reputation in Sacramento was very good. Wherever they have played, he states, they have packed their tent, and in every community they locate the merchants get increased business, due to their drawing power.

Why I Am In Glendale

I came to California from Toronto, Canada, in the fall of 1920 owing to sickness. I got well so quickly that I decided to stay here. At that time we were living in Los Angeles. The time came when we wanted to buy a home of our own. I visited many places in California, including Glendale. Glendale appealed to me the most. I believe her mountains drew me, her wonderful scenic beauty put me so much in mind of my native home in Scotland.

It did not take me long to find out that Glendale has all that the heart desires-her churches, her banks, her wonderful schools, her beautiful stores, that are so full of everything so nice one need never want to go further. So that is the reason why I am living, and always hope to live, in Glendale, "the Fairyland of the Southland." MRS. BESSIE MORGAN, Unless he will go with you as a friend and nothing more, I would advise you to give him up. It is in bad taste to accept jewelry from a man unless you are engaged to him. You should not have taken the ring in the first place. Now that you have accepted it, however, misunderstanding would probably arise if you tried to give it back without cause. Keep it as long as the boy remembers it was given "just for friendship," but if he demands more than friendship, give back the ring and say that under the circumstances you feel you cannot keep it. I think you are too young to go to shows and dances with boys. Of course I know that a lot of fifteen year old girls go, but nevertheless I believe them to be too young.

A girl is free from a man as long as she is not betrothed.
But when she accepts a ring as a gift she puts herself under obligation to him. It is much better to be entirely free and not the recipient of jewelry.

Dear Mrs. Thompson-I am a girl 17 years old and a junior in high school. I am very lonely on Sunday evenings. There is nothing to do but sit at home. I am popular enough at school with girls and boys, but as for a fellow I never have one. I am not in a po-sition to have friends at home as I would like to. We are well off and I have nice clothes. I cannot go with the home town boys because they fail to ask me.

SUGGESTIONS

If one intends to make a serious and sensible study of the subject of beauty, one has to consider some of the less pleasant sides of the question; for instance, perspiration, bad breath, pimples.

About perspiration, then. This is a problem that grows more annoying as the weather becomes warmer. Some perspire freely, some very odorously, unfortu-nately for them. Some people seem to have naturally strong water, her skin still strongly odorous of perspiration. That exercise, still throwing off matter

In every case of bad or odorous perspiration, take a daily warm bath, using plenty of soap, preferably castile. It won't relieve the condition at first, but it will in the end. More than this, take an antiseptic bath. Buy boracic acid in powder form by the pound and add two generous tablespoons of it to your bath water. This neutralizes odors, and is antiseptic. Or use any good creosote antiseptic, and ask your doctor the proper propor-tion to a bath of warm water.

One of the most famous skin specialists of the war cured every case he undertook, with the British army at a hospital in Etaples,

by giving the men two very hot antiseptic baths every day, the antiseptic being a thick, black stuff, mostly creosote. Cases of boils that had existed for months and years yielded at once to this But, for perspiration, you needn't be that strenuous! The daily bath, and lots of cooling bath powder, half boracic acid powder, half talcum, will do it

Most of us believe we are hav-

Your letter shows how discon-

I am inclined to think you ex-

QUESTION—Under any circumstances do men on the bases have anything to do with winning and losing games?

ANSWER—They have very much to do with it but presumably your query refers to runners who are left on the bases when pitchers are changed. If there were three runners left on the bases when a pitcher went out he would be held responsible for all three runs if they approximately appeared on the scene for the scheduled romp of ten no-decision rounds between Carpentier and Tom Gibbons late this afternoon.
